[REDACTED]
Remember when [REDACTED] told us that someone high profile was there at NJBI when there was no surgical coverage? He was eventually transplanted and ESPN E:60 did a [REDACTED] on him:

[REDACTED]
ahhh! I saw this being promo'd over the weekend! 08:57
I should add that to the case file 08:57

[REDACTED]
Haha do it! 08:57

[REDACTED]
speaking of, I just scanned in this shit-ton of medical records for this case and am about to redact 08:58
you've been spared 08:58

[REDACTED]
WHEW! 08:58
hahaha 08:58

[REDACTED]
ol' [REDACTED] is gonna get it! 08:58
[REDACTED]
I aint mad about that. 08:58

[REDACTED]
well, actually he has something big too 08:59
he was taunting me about it yesterday 08:59
not realizing it's you to Q A 08:59

[REDACTED]
oh yeah. dammit. the TXHD one whenever that comes in. 08:59
[REDACTED] has his work cut out for him today b/c i have a shit ton of letters ready to go. 09:00

I'll be bombarding him after the [REDACTED] 09:00
I want TXGC and FLMP off my damn desk for a while. 09:00

[REDACTED]
oh, yeah 09:00
I don't blame you! 09:00

[REDACTED]
I'm not looking forward to sending a notification (if the group agrees with 09:03 my recommendation to cite for 6.6.F) b/c I KNOW I'll be getting a call or an email. Because [REDACTED] told his peeps, "It's still in allocation analysis it seems" and that's why he still didn't want to send documentation of communication.

Except [REDACTED] [REDACTED] has never asked about an allocation analysis case. 09:04 [REDACTED] [REDACTED] has only ever asked about policy violations and patient safety issues.

some things you don't get from book-learnin. 09:05

[REDACTED] [REDACTED]
you have my permission to enlighten [REDACTED] about the many different functional areas at UNOS 09:05

lolol 09:05

"your knowledge of UNOS ops is out-of-date and lacking, [REDACTED]" 09:06

just like your grasp on policy 09:06

[REDACTED] [REDACTED]
Here, let me read you 6.6.F.i. Can you please now tell me where you think policy puts a limit on how far down you go on the heart run before you can allocate lungs anyway? 09:07

See, that "categories 1-4" thing...that's in the lung-needs-heart paragraph. 09:07
Not the heart-needs-lung paragraph.

that's perfect 09:07

tell them just like that 09:08

hahaha 09:08

[REDACTED] [REDACTED]

small words 09:08

short sentences 09:08

LOL 09:08

When I was talking with [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] [REDACTED] said plainly, policy doesn't put a limit on how far down you go on the HR match. [REDACTED] told me about a case she worked when she was allocation/safety analyst (back when 6 of them did both of these jobs) and she had a case where the OPO rescinded the lungs from a CHILD because they allocated the heart to a patient who also needed lungs. 09:09

oh jesus 09:10

that must have been awful if she still remembers it 09:11

[REDACTED] [REDACTED]
yep 09:11

but even then the OPO knew lung-follows-heart. 09:11

SFC OPTN Hearing
Exhibit J.80

right	09:11
i can only imagine being the coordinator who has to break that news	09:12
you will never make that mistake again	09:12
never. you will never allocate lungs before that heart is officially placed ever again.	09:12
god that's a job i don't want.	09:12
