

One of the biggest problem that This island faces, is the bad management of its grants or federal budget assigned to the different Goverment agencies, specially for education, grants are not used for what it is assign. Also Puerto Rico is a small island with to many cities Halls, Government is too big, It eats most of the pay roll. We should have a smaller and effective Goverment, and Congress should assigned a committee to assure it meets its compliance. Sometime the people that had hold positions, really do not represent the interest of it citizens, you know that. It would be good to have people not related to our political parties involve in these issues, they had their chance for many years and never did anything to avoid this situation we have now. If any I think the independent candidate, Cidre, is not an extension like other independent candidates that are an extension of the democratic left party. Cidres has very good ideas, that I think will work for the islands problems. Thank you for giving us the chance to input.
